

Autumn Programme 2026/27

The Power of Enrichment

'Enrichment' can be any thing that our school community takes part in beyond the taught curriculum that everyone shares. At Thomas Gainsborough School we take great pride in delivering a consistent, high quality curriculum for all. As such, the enrichment activities each person chooses to take part in for the unique, special 'threads' in the 'tapestry' of their experiences in school. Research clearly shows that taking part in enrichment activities can have a profound positive impact on the holistic development and future opportunities of young people, and is a key driver in removing barriers and closing gaps.

Enrichment takes many forms at Thomas Gainsborough School. Various additional activities are woven into the school day, from the Arts Award delivered to students in Year 8 Art, to LAMDA and Instrumental lessons, to the collaborative arts and science project in partnership with the Protein Databank in Europe and our morning music and choir sessions and an array of enrichment trips, visits, workshops and talks, there is a rich variety of experiences to access.

In the following pages you will find the after school or lunchtime sessions offered by staff across the school. The variety of these sessions gives you an opportunity to make choices about which you would like to take part in, effectively plan your time and select an exciting and challenging 'tapestry' of enrichment activities. Alongside these sessions we have also reflected on which skills and values you will be building, from confidence to positivity or creativity to teamwork. These will help you to think about which skills and characteristics you most want to grow in yourselves.

Finally, enjoy your enrichment at Thomas Gainsborough School and embrace the opportunities they give you!

The Duke of Edinburgh's Award is a world-leading youth achievement award that pushes young people to discover their full potential. Through four core challenges-volunteering, physical fitness, specialist skills, and a team expedition-participants build the resilience, confidence, and leadership skills that classrooms alone can't teach. It is highly valued by universities and employers because it proves a candidate can commit, problem-solve, and work in a team. Ultimately, it's about stepping out of your comfort zone, giving back to the community, and developing life skills that stick with you forever
